Studying African Christianity at CMS Oxford

Theology, Ministry & Mission

 CHURCH
MISSION SOCIETY

Introduction

CMS Oxford is known for her decade-long leadership in Pioneer Mission Training. This has been a helpful theological training for those involved in ministry at various levels in the UK. However, since 2021, CMS partnered with Missio Africanus to introduce a route that focuses on African Christianity in the delivery of their programmes.

In today's world, few factors converge to emphasise the significance of studying African Christianity (at any level). First is the rapid growth of Christianity in Africa as Africa now has more Christians than any other continent, and has become the global centre of World Christianity. Second is the decline of Christianity in the West, especially in the UK where, for the first time in a UK census (2021), the population of Christians are less than half of the general population. Third is the unrelenting reality of migration, such that, in the UK context, about 60 per cent of the increase in population in the last decade has been as a result of migration.

When all these factors come together, one cannot ignore the significance of Africa on the UK Christian landscape and, indeed, on the global Christian landscape. Unfortunately, it is yet to be the case that the production of Christian resources and theological writing has shifted in the same direction as global Christianity. So the world needs African (and Latin American and Asian) histories of Christianity. We need African contributions to the disciplines of theology, missions and ecclesiology. We need churches in the UK and across the Western world that will identify the multicultural gifts in their cities and appropriate these gifts to the glory of God. We need pioneering mission initiatives that will deliver African flavours to the salad bowl of God's mission anywhere in the world. So the African Christianity courses at CMS are designed to meet these needs, and where better to embark on such a study than CMS whose organisational goal is to follow Jesus to the edges!

African Christianity Pathways at CMS Oxford

Undergraduate

- Certificate - 1 year

Postgraduate

- MA - 2 or 3 years
- DTh - professional doctorate in Practical Theology (in partnership with the University of Roehampton)

Ordinands and Licensed Lay Ministers

- For Anglicans, depending on the diocese you are in, you may be able to train to be an ordained minister of the Church of England or a Licensed Lay Minister.
- If you are interested in ordained ministry or licensing as a lay minister, contact Helen Harwood (helen.harwood@churchmissionsociety.org) for more information.
- If you are not a member of the Church of England, your denomination may have a different process, but you still may be able to train with CMS.

Why train with Church Mission Society?

Be understood.

A course by pioneers for pioneers. We get it and we will help you help others get it. Our students discover a language that works.

Be recognised.

The pioneering gift should be recognised and appreciated. Our qualifications are accredited by Durham University.

Be trusted.

A whole 200+ year mission community and a vast network behind you who believe in you. Really.

Be supported.

You can't do this alone. You'll be part of a dynamic learning community and wider network of pioneer hubs and friends.

Be you.

Connect and learn with others like you who have discovered the freedom of not fitting in.

Undergraduate Certificate Modules (Taught Fully Online)

Certificate - Level 4 Modules

- Introduction to Black and African Theology — offers a comprehensive exploration of the rich theological traditions and perspectives emerging from Black and African contexts.
- Foundations for Theology and Reflective Practice — an introduction to contextual theology, principles and methods of reflection, and their place in mission and practice (online)
- Mission and Evangelism — puts the Bible in conversations with culture to help us gain greater understanding about our own practice of mission, looks at historical trends and current approaches to engaging and witnessing to the world around us, along with practical engagement in mission (online with weekend residential)
- Introduction to Church History — an overview of church history and its social, cultural, and political context, helping you see how history might have shaped your practice and experience.
- Introduction to the Bible — an overview of the purpose, context and content of the Old and New Testaments, becoming familiar with approaches to biblical study and considering how to engage biblical texts in mission and ministry.
- Spirituality and Discipleship — explores different approaches to discipleship, considering various Christian spiritual practices and their impact on our individual spiritual lives, and how we might engage practically with them in our lives and the lives of our community (week residential)

Sheila Akomiah-Conteh

African Theology
Undergraduate Lecturer

Master of Arts Modules (Taught Fully Online)

MA - Level 7 Modules

- Advanced Topic in African Church History — a course designed to help students study church history with particular focus on Africa.
- Christianity and African Religious Traditions — a course designed to help students undertake an in-depth study of the African indigenous religious tradition, how it relates to culture, shapes the identity of African Christians, and how it finds expression in orality, rituals and artistic forms using music and dance.
- African Pentecostalism — A course designed to help students engage in a systematic and comprehensive study of the nature of Pentecostal and charismatic types of Christianity in Africa and the African diaspora.
- Missional Ecclesiology — A course designed to help students reflect on the role and mission of the church both historically and in the contemporary world, bringing their own experience into conversation with various perspectives.
- Research and Reflection: Resources and Methods — A course designed to introduce students to various research methods and approaches to theological reflection. There will be an opportunity to design a research project.
- Reflective Practice: Leadership and Collaboration — A course designed to enable students to discern appropriate models of leadership and evaluate their own experience in leadership. Material is drawn from both secular and Christian contexts.

“We’re hoping to create a movement of post-colonial missionaries who will be able to work across cultures and races.”

Dr Harvey Kwiyani

Being a student at CMS

Teaching Format

All our teaching days for Undergraduate (Mondays) and Postgraduate (Tuesdays) kick off with a student-led creative worship session from 10:30-11am, and teaching sessions are 11am-1pm; and 2-4pm (UK Time).

Accredited by Durham University

Our programmes are accredited through Durham University as part of a suite of Common Awards. The awards are taught in Theological Education Institutes (TEIs) all over the country, of which we are one with Ripon College, Cuddesdon. In other words, at the end of your study, you will be getting a University of Durham qualification.

What students say...

"I signed up partly because I need the tools to better engage in mission in Bristol where almost 200 nationalities are represented and close to 100 different languages are spoken. My experience has been enriching and humbling. I've found myself taught by the experience of others. The MA course has been stretching and equipping – the MA is shaping my practice."

Rosie Hopley | 3rd Year MA student

"The course is designed with African-background learners in mind. This makes it easy for students to apply what they have learned to their own contexts on the African continent and across the diaspora."

Gowi Odera (3rd Year MA student)

"It's been a brilliant course. It's introduced me to African leaders, thinkers, and theologians who I just wouldn't have discovered by myself."

Felix Aremo (2nd Year MA student)

"Taking the Christianity in the African Diaspora course has not been what I thought it would be, but it has been so much more. It has helped me knock down walls that I had built around my own heart, to see more clearly the fields that are before me, and helped to fill me with new courage and determination to speak boldly and courageously as I work towards reconciliation that can only be found at the feet of Jesus."

*Angel Rena Collins Itzstein
(3rd Year MA Student)*
